

Lopo

Rubrica

My affliction is a lack of pretext: I need to see my lady where she lives.
I haven't been in ages –
but still I keep my distance:
none can know my lover's name.

I'm too afraid for a meeting, they'll realize who I'm with.
Her absence is like death, albeit longer-lived –
but still I keep my distance:
none can know my lover's name.

Lacking in excuses,
I don't know what comes next.
Dying would be better than another day of this –
but still, I keep my distance:
none can know my lover's name.

nem saberám, mentr'eu a queste sem houver: que hei per mim quem quero bem.
